RE: MUR 6638

Dear Mr. Herman,

In 2009, I did enter into an agreement with Creation House and purchased copies of my book with my own money. When I decided to run for Congress during the 2010 election, the campaign purchased many more books (a book of solutions to our national challenges) from them which were distributed to over 20,000 voters in the district, some mailed and some hand delivered. That is reflected in our FEC filings. At no time did I profit from any of these books we purchased for the campaign and at no time did we use campaign funds for any personal debts.

In this current election, the campaign once again distributed books, I had purchased personally in the primary for which costs were incurred. I did owe Strang Communications a very small amount of money for books I had personally purchased from them, (which Mr. Randolph referred to in the complaint as part of my financial affidavit in the divorce proceeding). I believe it was just delivery costs and I have since repaid them with my own funds.

As the FEC filings reflect, I have personally contributed hundreds of thousands to my campaigns and clearly am not misusing funds of my supporters. If I can be of further assistance, please do not hesitate to contact me at 407-388-2225.

Sincerely,

Todd Long
